Seuzeneau states, "It is imperative that the incoming mayor and council operate in a spirit of complete cooperation to take advantage of the tremendous growth predicted for our city."

Gene Taylor seeks Bay council post

Pledging to fight to keep Bay St. Louis from becoming a nameless, faceless suburb of New Orleans, Gene Taylor Friday announced his candidacy for the City Council Ward 1 seat. In his formal statement, Taylor said, "The special quality of life here in the Bay is likely to promote a period of growth in the near future." "Poorly planned growth will bring such problems as crime, higher taxes, overcrowded public services, and the City to begin special Wednesday trash route

By EDGAR PEREZ

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett reports a special monthly trash pickup schedule will be initiated in the city this week to collect materials which cannot be handled on the regular trash and garbage schedules.

The mayor noted garbage and trash collection in Bay St. Louis is covered by Ordinance No. 244 as amended in February, 1979.

This ordinance states that trash will be collected along with garbage on regular pickup days provided it is bagged, bundled or placed in a container and that it not be more than five feet in length.

"However, the administration feels a need exists to periodically pick up those items which cannot be satisfactorily bagged or bundled and to pick up excessive amounts which is so bagged but cannot be handled on a regular collection day," Bennett said.

"To accomplish this, special trash pickups will be run once a month beginning Wednesdays," he continued.

The special trash collection schedule includes:

Area 1 - All residences in the city limits north of US-90, first Wednesday of the month.

Area 2 - All residences south of US-90 and north of Washington Street (excludes Washington Street), second Wednesday of the month.

Area 3 - All residences south of Washington Street and US-90 (includes Washington Street), third Wednesday of the month.

The mayor listed the following rules for special pickup:

1. Items not normally picked up on garbage day may not be placed at curbside until the designated week.

Persons placing any materials at the street side other than garbage on designated days and trash on designated weeks will be cited for littering.

If the scheduled special pickup is not made by 2 p.m. on Thursday of the designated week, please call Gulf Coast Waste and Disposal, Inc. at 467-3376.

2. This special service is for residences only and does not cover commercial establishments.

3. This special service specifically excludes:

—leaves, grass clippings and pine straw not bagged.

—loose trash which is unsightly and could blow around the neighborhood. Such material must be bagged.

—construction materials such as lumber, masonry, roofing or gutters. These must be hauled by the contractor or the resident must make other private arrangements.

—trash from clearing lots.

4. These trash routes will be run utilizing a garbage truck. Other than stated above the only limitation would be items over five feet in length which is the width of the truck.

"This program will be continued as long as effective and not abused. If everyone will follow the above rules, plus continue to bag or bundle any trash that can be so handled for regular pickup, using proper containers such as 30 gallon cans with lids or waterproof bags (plastic at least 1.5 mil in thickness), put garbage or trash out only on days scheduled for pickup and bring in cans immediately after pickup, our city will be clean and all our property values will be enhanced," the mayor stated.

Federal budget cuts hit Hancock schools

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County School System is almost certain to lose $37,000 in Federal Impact Funds along with cutbacks in four other programs due to proposed federal budget cuts by the Reagan administration.

Superintendent Billy Sills Saturday reported on the impact federal budget cuts will have on county schools at a regularly scheduled school board meeting in Bay St. Louis.

Sills, who recently returned from a convention in Washington where government officials warned of areas which may receive federal cuts, said special education, vocational education and Title One funds, may be cut 25 percent, although larger cuts are proposed.

In addition, cafeteria commodities could be cut by eight percent.

"It's going to hurt," Sills said, "But no teachers will lose their jobs."

Sills said the Federal Impact Program, which gave $37,000 to the Hancock County School District for the fiscal 1980-81 year, will be cut out 100 percent.

He said that money is used for janitorial supplies, utilities, equipment, maintenance supplies and contracted services.

Sills said Harrison County will lose some $350,000 if the Federal Impact Funds are cut.

"They may be losing some teachers," he added.

Sills said that Harrison County uses part of the impact funds to supplement teachers' salaries while Hancock County uses local money for that purpose.

"We are going to hurt, but not as much as Harrison County," the superintendent said.

In addition, funds allocated for commodities in the school lunch program, including milk and rice, are projected to be cut eight percent.

Sills said cuts could range from six to 18 percent for cafeteria commodities although officials in Washington feel the cuts will be around eight percent.

"Most of the cuts will be felt in the Jackson offices and administrative offices," Sills said in reference to the 25 percent cuts in special education, vocational education and Title One funds.

Sills said he does not know how much money a 25 percent cut in those programs will mean to the Hancock County School District although he said teacher services (materials and supplies) will be affected.

Board member Louie Ladner said, "Before any teacher supplies are purchased by this board the teachers are going to have to be informed that we are working with a very tight budget and that we will purchase supplies only if they are a necessity."

Woodrow Ladner said all cut backs will have to be absorbed by the district and recommended the board members meet to see where we stand and where we are going on this thing.

Woodrow Ladner said principals will have to be informed that the amount of money allocated for budgets will be followed closely.

Sills agreed stating, "If we allocate X amount of dollars to the football program, and they go over that program, then that's it."

Sills said the Washington group advised school districts to combine special education programs with other schools to cut costs.

"We are already doing that," he said.

Sills also stated school systems may be allocated a block grant directly from the government in the future.

Currently block grants are allocated to the Mississippi Department of Education where the money is distributed to the various school departments.

"They are thinking about cutting out the middle man," Sills said.

Currently the board members are working on amending the 1980-81 budget, an annual responsibility.

Sills said the board will start on the 1981-82 school budget in the later part of April.

He recommended the members have workshop meetings to discuss the new budget cuts.

"The press will be allowed in the meetings," Sills said. "I have never been in favor of secret meetings."

Joint committee mulls Justice Court measures

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Mississippi House-Senate conference committee is hammering out a bill in Jackson this weekend designed to revamp the state's justice court system.

Sen. Martin Smith of Poplarville, who represents Hancock County, is member of the committee consisting of three from the House of Representatives and three Senators.

Smith chairs the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"We plan to meet with State Attorney General Bill Allain to discuss committee procedures based on a recent U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals decision ruling the justice court fee system in civil claims unconstitutional," Smith reported Friday afternoon.

Smith said a meeting with Allain is necessary to determine what legislation would avoid further lawsuits against justice court judges.

The Senate recently drafted a measure which calls for justice court judges being placed on salary beginning in 1984 and immediately requires cases be tried in the resident district of defendants.

The House has offered a similar bill, but calls for salaries to begin in fiscal

UMC department votes to unionize

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Universal Maintenance Corp., Inc. pipe department employees at Borg-Warner Chemical's Port Blenville plant construction site Thursday voted to unionize.

The National Labor Relations Board's New Orleans office conducted the secret ballot election at the construction site involving some 50 of approximately 150 UMC employees.

UMC was a non-union (open shop) company and is prime contractor for construction of the Borg-Warner plant here.

The Houston, Tex.-based company is a subsidiary of Jacobs Engineering Group.

Gulfport Pipefitters Local 568 of United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipefitting Industry of the United States and Canada (AFL-CIO) requested the election.

Fallon Bentz, NLRB acting regional director in New Orleans, Friday afternoon said, "The union won the election, but I don't know by what margin."

"UMC has five days after the election to file objections. I don't know if they are going to file or not," Bentz stated.

The acting director noted Belinda Cooper, NLRB field examiner, conducted the election during work hours Thursday.

Sources report the union won by a 37-16 margin.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson Wednesday said earlier in the week Borg-Warner officials requested deputies because "they expected trouble" during the election.

Two deputies were stationed in UMC's parking lot Thursday, but no incidents were reported by the sheriff's office.

A representative of The Sea Coast Echo Thursday attempted to gain information from UMC officials regarding the election.

The reporter was told through a gate speaker the company had "no information" and did not allow the representative into the plant site.

ALL QUIET—Universal Maintenance Corp., Inc. pipe department employees at Borg-Warner Chemical's Port Blenville plant construction site Thursday voted to unionize. Hancock County Sheriff's Department deputies were stationed at the plant parking lot to deter any violence, but from outside the plant site no disturbance was evident and Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson said no incidents were reported. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

One killed, four hurt on 603

By EDGAR PEREZ

One member of a Bay St. Louis family was killed early Saturday and three other members injured in a collision of two vehicles headed in opposite directions on Hwy. 603 approximately three miles north of US-90.

The 2:30 a.m. accident also resulted in injury to a fourth Hancock County resident, driver of one of the vehicles involved.

Mississippi Highway Patrolman Tony Greer of Kiln, investigating officer, identified the victim as Norma Jean Seals, 34, of Rt. 2, Box 303, Bay St. Louis.

The victim's husband, Charles Seals, 35, was reported in critical condition late Saturday afternoon in the recovery room after undergoing surgery at Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said he will be transferred to GMH's surgical intensive care unit.

Seals sustained back injuries, concussion, fractured jaw and lacerations of the arm in the accident, the hospital reported.

Greer reported the couple's two daughters, Charlene, 9, and Tammy, 14, were also injured in the accident. Charlene Seals, who also suffered a concussion, was reported to be in satisfactory condition by the GMH spokesman.

Nurses on duty at Hancock General Hospital Saturday afternoon refused to issue a condition report on Tammy Seals and Richard Seal, Rt. 1, Picayune, driver of the other car involved.

The HGH spokesman would not confirm if either of the pair were hospitalized.

Greer said he does not believe Richard Seals is related to the Seal family.

The patrolman reported the Seals vehicle, an International Scout headed south on the highway when the collision occurred about one-quarter mile south of Bayou LaCroix, overturned and came to rest on its top after the collision.

Richard Seal, driving a Dodge pickup truck north on the highway, was alone in his vehicle, MHP reported.

Greer said no charges have been filed in connection with the crash, but added his investigation is continuing.

The officer was assisted at the scene by members of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, Waveland Police Department and Mobile Medic.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Seals are incomplete at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis.

loss of a sense of community," he continued.

"It also attracts those who will exploit such growth at the expense of the taxpayer," Taylor said.

"As a city councilman I will make an all-out effort to ensure that this coming growth will enrich our community—I will seek to preserve those things that make Bay St. Louis such an outstanding place to live and raise a family," he added.

The candidate noted, "Since my job involves no financial dealings with the people or government of Bay St. Louis, I have nothing to gain from public office except the chance to serve the community I love."

A Bay St. Louis native, Taylor earned a BA in political science from Tulane University and has studied business and economics on the graduate level at University of Southern Mississippi, Gulf Park Campus.

His employment background includes experience as a machinist and a boarding agent for a shipping company. For the past four years, he has been a sales representative for the Gulf Container Corporation in Slidell.

Taylor is in his tenth year as an active member of the United States Coast Guard Reserve.

During the past seven years he has served as a search and rescue boat skipper and has received letters of commendation for outstanding performance as a patrol boat skipper and for saving the life of a crew member.

Taylor is married to the former Margaret Gordon, and they are the parents of a two-year-old daughter, Sarah.

They reside at 814 North Beach Boulevard.

Two face charges of grand larceny

By BRENT MACEY

Two area men were recently arrested by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and charged with grand larceny.

Joseph Tutt, 26, of Bay St. Louis, and Richard Wooton Jr., 25, of Waveland, were arrested March 10, in connection with a 25 horse power motor allegedly stolen from Breath's Boats and Motors in Bay St. Louis.

They were released on $2,500 bond. Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said the two were arrested after the motor was sold to person in the Bayou Phillips area.

Robber hits Jr. Food

Waveland police are continuing their search for a lone armed bandit who robbed the Jr. Food Store on US-90 just off Nicholson Avenue Thursday night.

Investigating officer John Wilkerson said the gunman, wearing a stocking mask, entered the store about 11:30 p.m. and demanded money from clerk Dorothy Knight of Shoreline Park.

The culprit forced Knight to lie on the floor as he made good his getaway.

Police said Knight reported she did not get a look at the escape vehicle.

The gunman was described as a white man, standing some six feet tall and weighing approximately 200 pounds. He reportedly got away with about $700.

We now understand why so many retired persons try to find something to do after a few weeks off the job.

Recovery at home has just about had me climbing the walls. I was sure good news Wednesday when the doctor gave the go ahead on working one-half day.

It is hard to believe how some people can do nothing but loaf all the time.

My wife is happy now that she does not have to play chauffeur anymore.

The snap of the bat can be heard around the county with baseball practice underway.

The main reason we mention this is because the play grounds are teeming with youngsters, and extreme caution should be extended by motorists in the ball park areas.

We know our Sheriff's Department, Bay and Waveland Police Departments will be monitoring traffic.

All drivers are urged to drive with extreme caution because some of the youth may only have baseball on their mind and dart into the street without looking.

There is nothing more discouraging for us to cover than an accident, especially when a child is involved.

Congratulations are in order for Lucien Gex Jr. on his being honored at the Bosses' Night 'Roundup' conducted by the Harrison and Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association. Gex, a resident of the City of Waveland and City Attorney is very active in the county.

We mentioned to him only a week ago, that in later years we will have to get together and compare notes as to who made the best move.

He was reared in Bay St. Louis and moved to Waveland and we did just the opposite.

We know we have mentioned this before, but Bay St. Louis election day is fast approaching, just like the last day for voter registration.

The registration deadline is Saturday, April 11 at noon, according to Eddie Favre, city clerk.

If you are not sure whether you have registered since the last city elections in June 1977, give the clerk's office a call at 467-9060.

Special registration hours are scheduled for those unable to get to the City Hall during regular hours.

Registration is upstairs at the City Hall, but for persons unable to climb stairs, a first floor registration will be held from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 4. That special registration will be in the Utilities Department area.

Other special office hours for voter registration include 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 4 and April 11; 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday nights, April 2 and April 9; and Monday nights, March 30 and April 6.

I keep hearing television is losing viewers, but that more sets are being sold. What does this mean? Just A Watcher.

Dear JAW: A survey a while back found that 1,200,000 fewer homes have tv on during the daytime, and 250,000 fewer have it on during the evening.

As you indicate this is in spite of 1,700,000 more homes with sets being added to the total.

The loss in viewers amounts to 8 per cent during daytime and 3 per cent at night, and in 1978 the first net loss of viewers in 27 years was noted.

The surveys don't tell why, but a number of reasons have been proposed:

- Households are getting smaller and researchers theorize the fewer people there are at home the less likely the tv set will be used;
- Persons 18-34 are less interested in tv than other age groups, and this age group now makes up a larger proportion of the population;
- More and more women are working outside the home, which results in a dramatic reduction of daytime television viewing. They also watch less at night, but this is not explained by the researchers.

Advertisers were not too pleased with the numbers, for they came at a time when tv ad rates were going up, and the number of spots increasing.

So far magazines have benefited from the demise of tv, but it is expected that all media will share in the attrition of heavy tv space buyers.

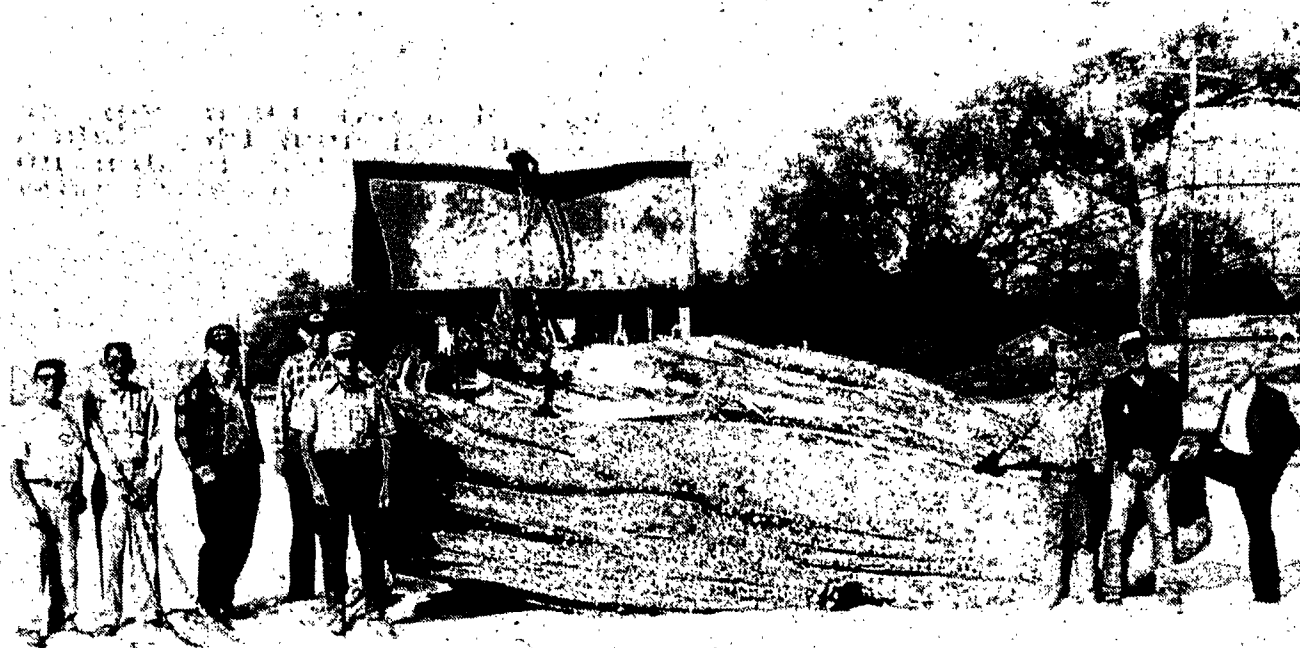

Magazines suffered the greatest blow when tv came on the scene and several well known periodicals were forced out of business.

Newspapers were generally less affected, as they are primarily a local medium anyway.

That magazines should benefit is probably a poetic justice. And some of the defunct magazines managed to stage dramatic comebacks.

Local advertisers weren't affected too much by the shakeup of tv, except for more co-op dollars being available from some manufacturers. The ultimate effect on the quality of tv programming will be a long time in manifesting itself.

ONCE MAJESTIC TREE—The remains of a virgin cypress tree washed ashore on Waveland Beach, barnacle encrusted and full of worm holes, is 7.5 feet in diameter and 19 feet long and was probably from the Pearl River Swamp. It must have been a massive tree before being felled. Hancock County Supervisor Sam Perniclaro, right, and District Four crewmen remove potential water hazard. The section of tree was so heavy that a large piece had to be broken off before removal. The largest piece is being displayed at the foot of Nicholson Avenue and Beach Boulevard according to Perniclaro.

Health and Safety Tip

From the American Medical Association

Alcohol Absorbed Rapidly

Alcohol is absorbed directly and fairly rapidly into the blood from the stomach and intestines. It is carried to the liver, then to the heart and distributed throughout the body's tissues.

Most consumed alcohol is eventually metabolized (broken down by body processes) into carbon dioxide and water.

A pamphlet from the American Medical Association points out that the rate of absorption varies among individuals and varies in the same person at different times. It depends on the amount of alcohol in the drink, how fast it is consumed, and how quickly it leaves the stomach.

Fasting or any other condition that causes rapid emptying of the stomach will bring about an increase in the absorption rate. Anything that delays emptying of the stomach, such as the presence of solid food, will retard absorption.

An average 150-pound man, under ordinary circumstances, can metabolize about seven grams of alcohol (the equivalent of about two thirds of an ounce of straight whiskey or eight ounces of beer) in an hour. But individual variation is reported to be as high as 50 per cent more or less than the average. The more you drink beyond your ability to metabolize alcohol in a given period, the more intoxicated you become.

The most disturbing effects of alcohol occur in the central nervous system, especially the brain. Judgment, memory and learning ability all are affected as intoxication increases. Coordination is impaired, as reflected by unsteady gait, speech disturbances and reduced manual skill. The drinker may feel little pain, or may be unconcerned about his safety. High concentrations of alcohol can lead to shock and death.

Sustained exposure of brain tissue to alcohol ultimately can lead to destruction of brain cells. Inadequate diet, so often associated with alcoholism, probably contributes to this process as well as to the degeneration of nerve tissue.

Prolonged and heavy use of alcohol usually causes problems ranging from inflammation of the stomach to ulceration and internal bleeding. Many alcoholics develop cirrhosis of the liver.

Alcohol appears to constrict the arteries of the heart. Studies suggest that it can injure the heart muscle.

While the body seems to adapt gradually to increasing amounts of alcohol, this tolerance may be lost in the advanced stages of alcoholism. Drinkers then find they can no longer tolerate alcohol, and a relatively small amount can bring intoxication.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Governor William Winter has urged the Federal Farm Credit Board to headquarter the 5th District Farm Credit Bank in Mississippi. Winter presented arguments for moving the Farm Credit Bank from New Orleans to Jackson before the Bank Board in Washington, D.C., Monday morning.

Winter emphasized that Mississippi is the geographic center of the three-state Farm Credit district which includes Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi. Winter also stressed that Mississippi is a larger agricultural producer than either Louisiana or Alabama and can tap more agricultural expertise. If the bank is moved to Mississippi it would bring assets of several billion dollars into the state.

While in Washington, Winter testified before House and Senate subcommittees on behalf of continued funding for the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway. Winter presented two fundamental arguments for completion of the Waterway. First the Waterway will result in significant economic stimulus for Mississippi. It will mean a significant expansion of industrial and agricultural opportunities for the state. "Moreover," Winter said, "it will make Mississippi a vital cog in the nation's transportation system. Reduction in the cost and time of shipping will be of inestimable value to farmers, industries and consumers."

Winter also stressed that failure to complete the Waterway would "wreck environmental havoc on the state, leaving an ugly scar across North Mississippi." Reclamation of the land would be almost as expensive as completion of the waterway, Winter noted.

"At a time of proper emphasis on economy in government, termination of this project at this stage of completion would represent the worst kind of false economy," Winter said.

RAILROAD SERVICE

In a move to help ensure adequate railroad service in Mississippi and protect the economic health of communities throughout the state, Governor William Winter last week renewed his call for a $10 million railroad revolving fund.

Money for the Railroad Revitalization Fund would come from a $22 million windfall which the state will receive from a change in collecting state income taxes.

In a message to the legislature calling for establishment of the revolving fund, Winter said Mississippi must take steps to ensure that "the state will not be crippled by the abandonment of hundreds of miles of railroads."

The railroad revolving fund would enable the state to put up one-third of the cost of upgrading rail tracks if shippers, local governments, and railroads shared in the cost.

Both houses of the Mississippi Legislature have acted favorably on enabling legislation for the revolving fund.

Winter also urged that $1 million of the windfall money be allocated to the State Forestry Commission to augment the commission's reforestation program. The forest products industry is one of Mississippi's largest and most productive industries.

CHAIRING BOARD

Gov. William Winter was selected chairman of the Southern Growth Policies Board at that organization's annual business meeting in Washington, D.C., recently.

Winter, who will be the first Mississippian to serve as chairman, will assume the post in September.

The SGPB identifies and studies the problems and needs of the Southern states. It also lobbies Congress, federal agencies and the President on behalf of the economic and social development of the region.

The board additionally serves as lead agency of the Southern Governors' Association. In that capacity the board represents the South in policy formulation on the federal level.

Winter, who participated in the initial organization and establishment of the board in the early 1970's, said his selection as SGPB chairman "reflects the increasingly important role Mississippi is playing in the economic, educational and social development of the South."

Winter said he will work aggressively as chairman to promote the interest of the South.

He further noted that the contacts and expertise he gains through the post should aid him in his efforts to develop the Mississippi economy.

RUSTY BLACKWELL

Blackwell to perform in USM arena theater

By EDGAR PEREZ

Pass Christian high school senior and Bay St. Louis Little Theater performer Rusty Blackwell has been accepted by the University of Southern Mississippi's Summer Arena Theater.

Blackwell is the only person accepted by the prestigious repertory company who does not hold a college degree.

"The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, which produced 'The Sea Horse' to showcase Blackwell's talents, is very proud of the recognition he has brought to the theater and this community," said Laurie Byrd, Bay Little Theatre director.

Blackwell was well received here last summer in his role of Sir Evelyn in Bay Little Theatre's production of 'Anything Goes.'

Byrd said Blackwell, in addition, consistently received standing ovations for his portrayals of Harry Bales in 'The Sea Horse.'

The theater took a top state community theater award in Hattiesburg for 'The Sea Horse' and presented the vehicle in a recent community theater festival in Orlando, Fla.

The Summer Arena Theater is a summer resident repertory company on the USM campus in Hattiesburg.

"Arena is designed to give the finest performance training to the serious theater student with a chance to focus on his craft without other academic pressures," Byrd added.

Blackwell was granted a full-tuition scholarship for the Arena Theater's 1981 summer session.

Byrd noted Blackwell has received full academic scholarship offers based on his acting abilities from USM, University of Mississippi, William Carey College, University of Georgia, St. Edwards College in Austin, Tex., Lambeth College, University of Alabama and the most prestigious of all drama schools, the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York.

year 1982 and cases immediately be assigned justice courts countywide on a rotating basis.

Smith noted, "The primary thrust of the bill in both houses is to stop forum shopping."

He explained forum shopping occurs when a plaintiff seeks a 'friendly court' to hear a case.

Smith said the federal court ruled the fee system unconstitutional regarding civil suits, but does not apply to hearing criminal cases.

"But we feel the fee system regarding criminal cases might also be determined unconstitutional," he added.

Although the Senate Wednesday voted by a 26-22 margin to delay the salary requirement until 1984 against the wishes of Smith, the senator said, "I'm bound to support the 1984 date as committee chairman and a Senate conferee."

"Either way the conference committee decides will satisfy the federal court ruling," Smith stated regarding both bill's provisions halting forum shopping.

Smith hopes the joint committee will reach a decision Sunday and notes, "Tuesday is the last day a revenue matter can be passed by the legislature."

The present legislative term is scheduled to end Sunday, April 4.

Little Theatre troupe to appear in N.Y. festival

As a result of their performance of "The Sea Horse" at a recent Southeast Community Theatre Conference in Orlando, Fla., a Bay St. Louis Little Theatre company has been invited to perform at an April International Arts Festival in Westchester, N.Y.

The group will appear in competition with community theater actors from Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Canada, Czechoslovakia, England, Guatemala, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Nigeria, Sri Lanka, and Yugoslavia, as well as four other American groups.

Members of the local group include Laurie Byrd, director; Richard Taylor, producer; Jim Holmes, technical director; Mike Cuevas and Rusty Blackwell, actors; Billy Bailey, staging.

"The Sea Horse" troupe has also been invited to perform at the multi-million dollar Theatre Memphis in Memphis, Tennessee.

In Florida the group competed in a Community Theatre Festival against community theater groups from 11 other states and Puerto Rico.

Members also participated in workshops for community theatre and were able to gather technical information from the design and technical operation departments of Walt Disney World.

Cost of the Florida participation was underwritten by local businesses, civic organizations, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, friends of the theatre, and the Mississippi Theatre Association.

TRADE DOLLAR IMBALANCE

Getting the attention of the average American citizen on a complex matter such as the nation's balance of payments abroad has got to be about as hard as getting the man of the house to rifle through his pockets for a three dollar vegetable seed receipt when the gap's down and a scrub bull in the next pasture has his eye on a consenting pure bred cow.

But unless we can pull some priorities together in America the Great, this nation may find itself flattened beneath the massive sandals of oil sheiks once again on the way to the bank.

The U. S. balance of payments is no illusionary specter that comes and goes at the whim and skill of high-echelon economists, but is a simple economic principle every bit as real and considerably more important, than you or I balancing our monthly deposits and withdrawals at the local bank.

Of late the U.S.A. has not been balancing imports with exports, our balance of payments is out of kilter, and until we increase our per capita productivity and sell that service for negotiable currency, our problem won't go away.

A nation's balance of payments occurs when the value of exports is equal to the value of imports. Equal money flows both ways across national lines enabling business profits with appropriate taxes earned and paid. Short of this, you have the mess the U.S. has gotten into in recent years as industrial productivity has diminished in the face of shortages of natural resources and runaway wages over and above a scale of productivity.

During the past decade it was American agriculture that saved the day for the national economy — with wheat and grain farmers particularly responsible for the heavy overseas trade that for a while kept fiscal embarrassment at arm's length.

The late seventies saw agricultural exports unable to cope with the increased reliance on foreign oil and a tardiness on the part of U. S. automakers to think small on the automotive drafting boards. Thus our historical balance of payments record has fallen.

For nearly a full century — 1876 to 1956, the U. S. only had three years in which imports exceeded exports and none of those years were in this century. The reasons for this record up to now have been due to a wide variety of climate and resources in the United States, a high degree of technological efficiency of our mass-scale production and distribution in manufacturing, the relative unimportance of our imports, and other factors.

In the period before World War I, the United States export surplus indicated a high and healthy economic asset. We supplied foreign exchange for interest and principal payments on foreign debt. In the twenties the U. S. became a net creditor nation and as such helped preserve an export surplus partly by making large loans to foreign countries.

The depression of the early thirties dealt us a blow as capital was needed at home. Yet we managed to hold onto an export surplus. The World War II period saw rising levels of productivity which enabled us to equalize. But post-war grants and credits to other nations trimmed our advantage and augmented theirs while we maintained a slight but reasonable balance in trade.

The decade of the seventies was critical for the U. S. We paid severely for oil, were hard hit by foreign auto imports, and agriculture which had been pulling us through for the first few years floundered beneath added burdens put on it by trade deficit industry and government intervention — such as trade embargoes sanctioned by three Presidents.

Trade balance is somewhere near the top of the pile of problems this Administration faces. And the problem won't go away until labor and government leaders accept our new profile in the community of nations, and permit a competitive free enterprise system to function free of padded prices and regulatory over-kill.

ASCS Report

MEASUREMENT SERVICE

Measurement and other producer services are available from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service to help farmers obtain accurate crop and land use acreages.

At the request of the producer, ASCS will measure the acreages of crop planted even though the producer requests measurement service is still required to report the crop acreages to the ASCS office.

"We are accepting measurement service requests," said Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS office. ASCS producer services include measuring total cropland, field or subdivisions to be planted and land areas for other purposes. Fees vary, based on the type of service rendered and the number of acres to be measured.

The ASCS official said the importance of accurate certification cannot be over emphasized. "The measured acreage is guaranteed and producers who take advantage of the service will avoid unnecessary worry about the loss of 1981 farm program benefits."

To request measurement services or to get additional information on these services, call or visit the local ASCS office at 103 West Cumberland Street, Poplarville (795-4932).

PEANUT SUPPORT Farmers participating in the 1981 peanut program will be eligible to receive a federal support price of $455 per ton for quota peanuts, and $250 per ton for additional peanuts, the same as last year.

The quota support level is expected to cover about 95 percent of the cost of producing peanuts. "This cost is based on a trend yield of 2,569 pounds per planted acre," Gennin said.

With carryover stocks almost non-existent, USDA indicates that the 1981 crop could bring peanut prices above support levels. Adverse weather conditions during the past growing season caused peanut prices to reach record levels, greatly exceeding the support level for quota peanuts.

Under the peanut price support program, each farm is assigned an acreage allotment and a poundage quota. Peanuts grown on allotted acres and within the farm's poundage quota are considered quota peanuts. Those grown on allotted acres, but in excess of the farm's quota and additional peanuts.

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

No second chance
Q. After nearly 34 years of marriage my husband came home and said he wanted a trial separation. He denied there was another woman, but I found out later he was involved with someone else. He has done nothing to try and save our marriage, which I believe is worth saving. Now he has filed for divorce. How could I have not known any of his feelings and why won't he give us another chance? What can I do?

A. The best thing you can do under the circumstances is simply to take this in a calm and dignified manner. Tell your husband that you believe your marriage could be saved. Say that he did not give you a fair break, but that if this is the way he wants it, you will accept it, though reluctantly. You have, of course, the right to know why. The fact that your husband demanded separation and divorce indicates that he had made his decision and did not want further consideration.

This sort of thing often results from subtle changes in personality, and you should not necessarily feel responsible or reproach yourself. Be sure you have a good legal adviser.

We are sending you our booklet You've Got a Future, which is free to any reader of this column. Write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

The cold shoulder
Q. My husband had to quit his job because of emotional problems, and on the recommendation of his doctor went to a mental health center. When the pastor and members of our church asked me if my husband had found a job yet I explained to them that my husband was under psychiatric care and was unable to work at this time. Since then I have been given the cold shoulder by these people. This upsets me. I was honest and I thought a pastor and friends would be understanding. What did I do wrong?

A. One wonders if you are not self-creating this "cold shoulder" feeling. It is utterly incredible that any pastor or church members in this day and age would cold shoulder a wife simply because her husband is under counseling. But if you are certain that you are right about the attitude of your pastor and the church members the proper procedure is to talk it out with him and them and not continue to brood over it.

Sean Logan is out at the plate on force play.

Haas records 13 strikeouts as Rocks down Tigers, 5-2

By Randy Ponder

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chows turned back the hosting Bay High Tigers, 5-2, in a come-from-behind high school baseball game Friday night in Bay St. Louis.

Bay High took the early lead in the first inning when pitcher David Strong knocked a RBI triple to center field after Joe Bye reached first on a single. A ground out and a strikeout ended the inning, stranding Strong at third.

The Tigers' lead was short lived, however, as the Rocks knotted the contest in their next at-bat.

Pitcher Andrew Haas doubled to lead off the second inning and Sean Logan brought him home with a clutch three base hit with two outs. Logan was also stranded at third as the next batter struck out.

Two runs in the third proved to be the margin of victory for the Rocks. Shawn Henderson singled to start the action and advanced to second when Bruce Cabell beat out a bunt at first.

A sacrifice bunt moved both runners up a base and the Tigers elected to intentionally walk Joe Gex to load the bases with only one out.

Andrew Haas, the next hitter, came through with a big hit, punching a two run single up the middle, leaving runners on first and third. Dennis Scardino drew a walk to fill the bases again.

The second out of the inning came on a rather unusual play when the runner on third, Gex, was tagged out near home plate on an unsuccessful squeeze play.

The object of a squeeze is for the runner at third to break for home when the pitcher releases the ball and hope the hitter makes contact with the baseball. Surprise is of the utmost importance on this type play and in this case the Tigers appeared to be aware of what was happening.

Strong, the Bay High pitcher, made a pitchout to Tiger catcher Mark Breland who easily tagged out Gex, a sitting duck.

While all of this was happening, Haas moved from second to third and Scardino later stole second. Both runners were stranded in scoring position when the next hitter fanned to end what could have been a big inning.

St. Stanislaus rounded out its scoring in the fourth, adding two insurance runs. Excellent defensive play by the Tigers prevented several other runs from reaching the plate.

Sean Logan walked, Steve Farve doubled, and Shawn Henderson drew a base on balls to load the bases with no outs. Bruce Cabell hit into a force play at home plate for the first out and Brad Lamey followed with another Breland moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on Bobby Richardson's triple to rightfield following a strikeout.

The Tigers left another runner in scoring position as the next batter went down swinging.

In the fifth the Rock's Sean Logan singled, stole second, and advanced to third on Steve Farve's sacrifice fly to deep center field. Bay High got out of the inning when the next batter hit into a groundout.

Andrew Haas pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the fifth. Two consecutive errors by the Rocks put runners on second and third with only one out and an intentional walk to David Strong filled the bases with Tigers.

Haas ended the threat with back to back strikeouts.

The win upped St. Stanislaus' record to 7-4 overall and 2-0 in conference play. Bay High is 5-5 on the season.

Haas recorded 13 strikeouts and allowed only 5 hits as he earned his fourth win of the year. David Strong was charged with the loss.

The Tigers will host the St. John Eagles Monday night at 7pm and St. Stanislaus will entertain that same club Wednesday afternoon at 4pm.

Answer to Puzzle

"What on earth are you doing here—you're supposed to be our own food guru with all the cooking answers was given me when Carol Surgi and I showed up last Tuesday at the 'Gardens of the South' cooking school co-sponsored by Southern Living magazine and the Sun-Daily Herald at the Coliseum.

My answer—though there's said to be nothing really new under the sun, there's still always something else to learn in the field of cooking—and there was.

Against a garden party background, the personable young home economist and assistants gave us pointers and ideas as the dishes were prepared. Looking around I saw several of our Coast's top cooks, among them Bea Lorenzen, Joe Servat and others.

And, though it wasn't easy to decide which among the delectables would become our favorite recipes, we all more or less agreed that the strawberry cream rolls took top honors, especially at this time of year with the fresh strawberries gleaming in the marketplace. Here's:

STRAWBERRY CREAM ROLLS
(Courtesy Southern Living; makes two rolls.)

4 eggs
1/2 cup water
1 (18 1/2 oz.) package Pillsbury Plus Yellow Cake Mix
Powdered Sugar
2 cups whipping cream

1 cup powdered sugar
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1/2 or 2 cups fresh strawberries, divided
Grease two 13x9x2-inch baking pans and line bottoms with waxed paper. Grease again.
Beat the eggs in a large bowl until they're thick and lemon colored.
(Takes about 5 minutes or so). Stir in the water. Gradually stir in the cake mix at low speed and blend well.

Pour half the batter into each pan spreading well and evenly to the edges. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 or 20 minutes or until the cake springs back when touched lightly in the center. Immediately invert on to two towels sprinkled generously with powdered sugar.
Roll up in towels, beginning at the short end, and cool on a wire rack five to eight minutes.

Beat the cream, a cup of powdered sugar and the vanilla in a medium bowl until peaks form. Puree enough strawberries (about a cup whole) to make a half cup puree, and fold into the whipped cream.

Unroll the cakes, spread lightly with about a cup of the cream mixture to within 1/4 inch of the edges of the cake. Reserve several whole strawberries for garnish, slice the remaining berries and arrange on cakes.

Reroll, place on serving plate. Frost with remaining cream mixture, garnish with reserved berries. Store in refrigerator. (Yields 16 servings).

Gulf Park to host stress management seminar

Increased stress is directly related to rapid social change. At the present time many women are facing drastic changes in their lifestyles and many women lead stressful lives.

Stressful changes for women include such events as returning to school, moving into the work force, facing large economic changes and personal pressures.

While stress related diseases, such as heart attacks and high blood pressure, are more frequent in males, other stress disorders such as depression occur in women twice as often as men.

On Wednesday, April 23, women in the Gulf Coast area can attend "The Stress Management Workshop for Women," which according to Dr. Sara Kay Lehrer of the USM Department of Community Services and Women's Programming, is designed "to help women recognize and deal with the stress in their home and work lives."

"This workshop is for all women who want to find out more about dealing with stress instead of suppressing it," said Dr. Lehrer.

Emphasis will be on self-awareness and management of stress, assessing and controlling work-related stress dealing with family needs and expectations, and classifying feelings on the roles of wife, mother, career woman and person.

The event will take place from 9-4 p.m. on the USM-Gulf Park Campus. For further information contact Women's Programming in Hattiesburg at 266-7386 or 266-4269, or write Department of Community Services, USM Box 5056, Hattiesburg, MS, 39401.

Dr. Joanne Stevens, counselor at the USM Counseling Center and associate professor in counseling psychology, with Dr. Patricia Faulkender, developmental psychologist at USM and associate professor of psychology, will conduct the session.

Arts council slates local Spring Festival

The Arts Council of Bay St. Louis and Waveland Mississippi, Inc. will conduct its first event of the year, an annual Spring Festival, on April 18, in the Exhibit Hall of the Hancock County Fair Grounds.

"The Arts Council was formed several months ago to promote 'the arts' in our area. This arts council is chartered by the State of Mississippi," says group secretary-treasurer Janet Aime.

"We are asking those interested in placing booths in the hall at the festival to contact Piccola Dietrich, president, at 467-4666 or me at 467-5155 or 467-9062 for information on or before April 1," Aime suggests.

"We would like to see as many participants as possible in the Spring Festival," she says.

"Operators of an art studio, dance studio, piano studio, photography studio, have a band or little theatre group, or those who paint, sing, dance, do woodcarving, cabinet making, or handicrafts, would want to participate in the festival," Aime reports.

"Persons who would like to sell 'works of art' may do so. Senior citizens are most welcome also," Aime states. "There are many wonderfully talented people in our area and their work should be enjoyed and admired by everyone," Aime adds.

Pass Library Week schedule reported

A "Super Special Wine and Cheese Tasting" Sunday, April 5, at the Pass Christian Public Library will open the community's observance of National Library Week. A number of other activities are slated throughout the week. The tasting, a "Silver Tea" event for the benefit of the Friends of the Library fund for various library projects, is scheduled from 5 to 7 p.m., said Mrs. William Schmitt, librarian and Library Week chairman, and Mrs. Ronny Caire, president of the Friends, and co-ordinator of Library Week events. "The public is invited to the event, of which Mrs. Otis Trepagnier and Mrs. Dan Sentilles are co-chairmen. The Friends and the library welcomes visitors, and hope that they will take this opportunity to look around our library and become better acquainted with the services we have to offer," said Trepagnier and Sentilles, in issuing the invitation to the festivities.

A Special Awards Program for school children entered in the "My Favorite Book" poster contest will take place Monday, April 6, at 3:30 p.m. in the library, with gift certificates from the Book Boat in Pass Christian and other surprise awards going to the winners in the contest.

Children in grades one through six participated in the competition. Mrs. Herman Rolufs will be hostess at a party following the program.

All entries will remain on display throughout the week. Mrs. Theo Moore, past president of the Friends, will entertain the pre-schoolers at a "Special Story Hour" and cookie party Wednesday at 10 a.m., with Mrs. Ronny Caire as co-hostess.

A "Special Show and Tell" of his vacation trip to the Virgin Islands will be presented by William Schmitt Friday at 2 p.m., with a number of interesting slides along with the narration.

There will also be a "Special Coffee Hour" at the usual time Friday morning, 10 a.m., with Mrs. William Curren, hospitality chairman of the Friends of the Library, in charge.

Special book displays will be on hand.

MARDI GRAS FESTIVAL—Elizabeth Holmes of Bay St. Louis joined other students in a sidewalk drawing contest that was part of a Mardi Gras festival held recently at the University of Mississippi. The festival was sponsored by the Union Program Council at Ole Miss. Jazz bands and clowns entertained during the week to give the campus a Mardi Gras atmosphere.

Perkinston plans writing workshop

Manuscripts for the 11th annual Creative Writing Workshop at Gulf Coast Junior College are being accepted now, according to Nell Henderson, workshop director.

Henderson said short fiction, poetry and personal essays will be accepted.

Deadline is Thursday, April 30. The workshop will be Wednesday through Friday, June 17-19, at the Perkinston Campus.

"Copy should be typed, double-spaced, on one side only and carefully proofread," Henderson said.

"Manuscripts will be evaluated by a panel of writer-consultants and discussed in individual sessions. The best manuscripts will be published in the 1982 edition of 'Wordcraft', GCJC's literary magazine," she added. Consultants will be Terry Hummer, poet-in-residence at the University of Oklahoma, Stillwater; Tom Waldrep, English instructor at the University of South Carolina, Columbia; H. E. Francis, writer-in-residence at the University of Alabama, Huntsville; Dr. Charles East, assistant director of the University of Georgia Press, Athens; and Henderson, language arts instructor at GCJC's Perkinston Campus. Mississippi writer Anne Carseley will teach two sessions on writing for the paperback market. She has authored four novels and will have copies of "This Ravished Rose" for sale.

Participants live on campus are charged a nominal fee for rooms and meals. Additional information on registration fees and sessions is available from Mrs. Henderson at the Perkinston Campus, 928-5211.

Bay contest open to young ladies

The City of Bay St. Louis is sponsoring a local Miss Hospitality Contest again this year.

"We are looking for Bay St. Louis businesses which would like to sponsor a young lady in this contest. We are also looking for young ladies who are interested, are between the ages of 18 and 23 and who live within the city limits," a city hall spokesman says.

"We have several applicants and sponsors at this time, but would like to see many more participants," the spokesman notes.

"The contest will be conducted in May. A more definite date will be set when all applications are in," the spokesman reports.

"We will meet with contestants to determine a date which will not interfere with school or college schedules," the spokesman added.

For more information contact Janet Aime of City Hall by calling 467-9082 between the hours of 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Parents of learning disabled schedule April meeting

The Hancock County Chapter, Mississippi Association of Children with Learning Disabilities meets 6:30 p.m. April 20 at Wheel Inn in Bay St. Louis.

Ms. Judy Wells of Hancock County Rehabilitation Center, will address the chapter.

She will also assist parents in deciding on a vocational goal for their learning disabled child's life.

Election of 1982 chapter officers will also take place. "Learning disabled students usually lack organization abilities," said Mrs. Lawrence Abrams, chapter spokesman. "They must be taught step-by-step how to solve all problems. If not properly taught each step by parents or teachers, they will jump from A to D and never see or use B and C," she explained.

"Therefore, to be a socially accepted member of society, the learning disabled must be helped to 'Plan your work, then work your plan' or he will never be able to keep a job. Most people are unemployed because they cannot keep a job, not because they cannot get one," she stated.

True beauty lies within souls of poets, artists

By S. GRADY THIGPEN
All poetry is not written down in words. In front of my business I recently saw a master piece of poetry in action.

An old man up in his eighties was slowly making his way up the street. With him was his little 5 year old grandson. This old man showed in every movement his great pride in his little grandson, and the boy knew that his grandfather was the greatest person in all the world.

They passed by, absorbed in one another. No picture has ever been painted that compares in simple beauty with that scene.

You do not have to get on the train, or catch a plane and take a long trip to see the most interesting and the most beautiful things in the world. They are around you right here if you will but look for them.

Simple, common, everyday things like the old man and his grandson happen all along if we will but watch for them.

Often very commonplace simple things have much greater interest and beauty than the more expensive ones.

Simplicity and beauty are not opposites. Being simple and inexpensive does not mean being ugly anymore than being stylish and costly means being beautiful.

Most people are not pleased by the spectacle of gaudy dress and loud ornament, or by over-dress, regardless of how expensive it might be.

One of the reasons the Bible is so widely read is because it is written in simple easy to understand language.

Much of the so-called literature we get today is not written in such simple language and, too much of it is overwrought, over imagined and often replaces simplicity with vulgarity.

The most beautiful things are the simple things. The beauty and the poetry of existence lie in the understanding we have of it.

Our home, our lawn, our dress, our attitudes towards others, our manners, are the interpreters of what we are.

A person need not be rich to give grace and charm to his home—it is sufficient to have good taste and good will and the earnest desire to make his home pleasing and attractive.

Going to school and studying the fine arts is a wonderful thing for those who can afford it, but this is a restricted privilege not available to most of us who have not had that advantage and most of those now growing up will not be able to go to the higher schools.

We overlook that probably the greatest art of all springs from the efforts of women in modest homes whether they have had the advantage of going on to school or not.

The average farm woman knows by instinct the art of making her home attractive. In this way she is poet, artist and creator of an attractive home atmosphere, that most men cannot match.

Without this touch of a woman who loves her home, the most richly decorated house is an unattractive dwelling-place.

With it the barest home has life and brightness.

Not long ago, I was in a simple country home with the most common furniture and furnishings, yet there was a grace and dignity, with its spotless cleanliness and attractive arrangement that made this modest home appealingly attractive.

The lady of this house had no modern gadgets for keeping house, the house was cramped for room, the furniture and furnishings were old time and simple, yet a woman's touch, a woman's instinctive creativeness had brought order, good arrangement and coziness.

She had put great care into her work of making a home. By my book, this woman is undeniably a real artist.

To do well what one has to do is not the privilege of the few, but the right of every woman. That farm woman knew how to give her home a dignity and attractiveness not found in many high priced homes with fine furnishings, that are cared for by hired people.

Life is rich in hidden beauties, in attractions and satisfactions to all who will see them. It's not in where we go or what we see or what we buy, but it's what is within us that counts.

A person with this inner strength, this inner resourcefulness will find more pleasure and have more fun in his or her modest home than some other person without this quality will have living in a million dollar house or in a year's trip around the world with unlimited expense account.

I read the other day this statement — "The United States is the only country in the world where everybody who's able to own a Chevrolet has a Cadillac."

Our insatiable desire to own things we are not able to own, to make an impression that we are not what we really are is the cause of most of the unhappiness in this country today.

How much better off we would all be if we lived more within our means and improvised and made the best of things, like the farm woman I told about.

Instead of luxury bought one time maybe we would use our native abilities and learn that we could do a thousand things, and discover the much greater satisfaction from living a more simple life.

I read a book that made a great impression on me. It was the story of a man who came to this country from Europe in 1900.

He started out shining shoes, working in a shoeshine parlor for another man.

He saved his money, and soon had a shoe shine parlor of his own. In a few years he had saved up enough money to buy the building in which his shoe shine parlor was located.

He kept buying up other property, and while he quit shining shoes for a living himself he kept his shoe shine parlor.

Though this man is now rated a millionaire, every week he goes to this shoe shine parlor and shines shoes for a few hours, just like he did when he first came to this country.

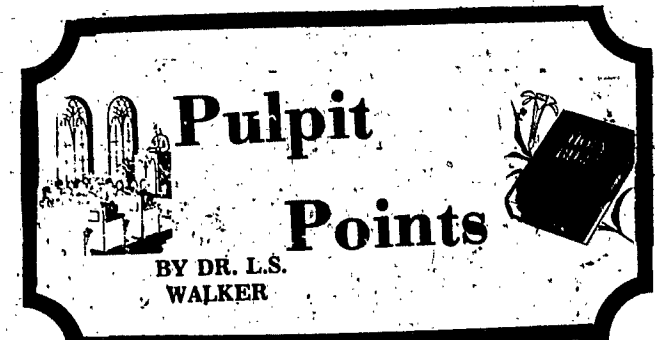

Many women when their husbands get a little bit up in the world lose their interest in the humble tasks they once were proud to do.

Contempt for the humble jobs comes from the mistaken belief that beauty and poetry are within some things, while others lack them; that some occupations are distinguished and above others; and that other tasks are menial and disagreeable, like blacking shoes, sweeping and even cooking.

What wrong thinking! Neither the piano, the bridge table, nor the broom or kitchen apron have anything to do with it; all depends on the hand in which they are and the spirit of the person using them.

Poetry, music, beauty are not in things they are in us. If your life, or my life, and occupation remains drab, in spite of any outward distinction, it is because we do not know how to put anything into life.

The height of education is to make the uninteresting thing have interest. The farm woman I told of is highly educated in the art of making a home, though she may not even know what the word education means.

WHAT IS WORLDLINESS? In a scriptural and historic context it alludes to the hedonistic philosophies of this world system.

It is human activity with God left out. It is life that is horizontal only, and not vertical.

"Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God," cried the Apostle Paul — II Cor. 3:5.

"Ye adulterers and adulteresses, know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be the friend of the world is the enemy of God" — James 4:4. The "World" in this passage, as in others, has reference to a sinfully depraved human race blinded in sin and steeped in carnal sensuality.

Worldliness is ambition without aspiration. Its goal is success, and not holiness. Hearing no divine voice, it is destitute of reverence. It accepts a sense of values which are not compatible with the Word of God.

It loves and maintains its own religion, altered and compromised to suit its own carnal and corrupted imaginations. It never bows in rapt, silent wonder in the secret place. It has desires but no supplication.

God is not denied — He is simply forgotten and ignored. Its affections are not set on "things above," but the things of this "present world."

It is hedonism doing its thing. It is humanism feeling sufficient of itself.

This, in part, explains why God's Word says: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. For all that is of the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world" — I John 2:15-17.

Let us leave for your study, one other concluding scripture reference on the subject:

"For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lust, we should live soberly, righteously, and Godly, in this present world; looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ; who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works" — Titus 2:11-14.

Hancock AARP hears organization overview

Stewart Bauer, assistant district director of the American Association of Retired Persons, Inc. of Picayune, was a guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Hancock County Chapter No. 1114 of AARP conducted at the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue recently.

Theresa Hubert presided at that meeting.

Bauer and Hubert conducted a "Chapter President's Workshop." Bauer highlights aims and purposes of the AARP. Hubert introduced Julia Loup who spoke on membership and ways to attract new members," a group spokesman reports.

Joe Servat, legislative chairman, stressed the importance of this program.

"Gordon Stone, tax-aid chairman, reported he has assisted many citizens with their income tax forms. Anyone needing help may call Stone for an appointment," the spokesman says.

"Bauer discussed changes in AARP insurance. Following a question and answer period, members agreed they save money by buying their medicine from an AARP pharmacy," the spokesman notes.

"All members also receive discounts on travel tickets, motels, hotels and many toll bridges," the spokesman says.

"All members were urged to pay dues as soon as possible and to bring a new member to the next meeting," the spokesman reports.

A door prize which was a green St. Patrick's Day cake was won by Carol Surgi.

Coffee and cake was served at the end of the meeting.

DRUG QUIZ

QUESTION — According to a UPI story written by Dr. Frederick R. Demies, 45% of teenagers now report having been drunk at least once, and 19% report getting drunk once a month. Forty-one percent of high school seniors reported drinking heavily at least occasionally; 7% said they drink daily; 32% said all or most of their friends get drunk at least once a week. Which "recreational" drug is used most by teenagers?

a) Alcohol
b) Cigarettes
c) Marijuana
d) These three are used

ANSWER — Regular use of alcohol is at least twice that of marijuana or cigarettes. Federal studies reveal these further shocking facts: drunk driving is the number one killer of teenagers; an estimated 8,000 young people are killed each year in alcohol-related automobile accidents; 40,000 highway injuries among youth, annually, are linked to alcohol.

Correct answer — a. For further information about alcohol and drug abuse write Christian Action Commission, P.O. Box 530, Jackson, MS 39205.

What Episcopalians Believe

Episcopalians make better coffee than almost anyone.

Episcopalians believe in the importance of confession and frequently confess their sins, particularly when confronted with the evidence.

Episcopalians believe in ecumenism because they want everyone else to become just like Episcopalians.

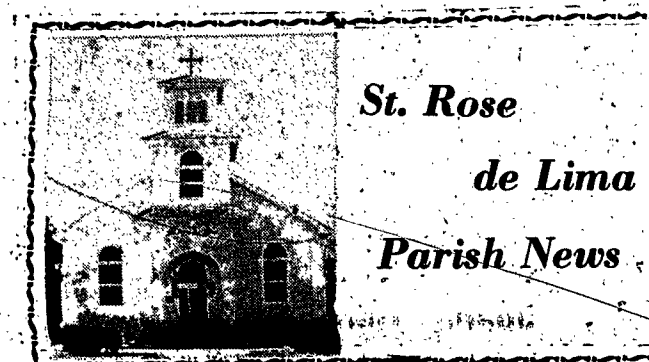

Episcopalians wouldn't trade jobs with their rectors but would like to trade vacations with them.

Episcopalians who have never been on vestries claim they don't know what goes on at meetings. Episcopalians who have been, claim they don't either.

Episcopalians enjoy church suppers and will pay as much as a dollar for the privilege of bringing the family to one.

Episcopalians don't think the Church should abandon the principle of the tithe. They don't think the Church should insist on it either.

Only such a woman can put into a home that indefinable something whose virtue has made the poet say, "The housetop rejoices and is glad."

There are many definitions of education. A broad definition would be that an educated person is a competent person. A person does not have to go to school to get a real education.

While going to school is most to be desired, some of our best educated people have never gone to more than grade school.

Sometime back I had trouble with my car while on a trip away from home. I managed to get it to a shop and asked for a mechanic.

In a few minutes but shuffled a gangling, grease appeared man. As I told him the way the car acted, he listened intently, asked a question or two, then raised the hood, fiddled around with a screw driver and a wrench for a minute or two and then said, "Now try it."

I did and it worked perfectly.

Now if that man is not a highly educated man, I don't know what education is. True, he has no college degree but he does have something much better — real, practical knowledge that gets things done.

Many of our most famous men had very little formal education so far as going to school is concerned but they had real education and they left their indelible marks upon the world.

English Herring Brunch

Brunch has become part of America's life-style in cuisine. Here, in our "melting pot" tradition, we've borrowed a couple of British favorites to create a tempting twist to your menu.

This "English Herring Brunch" stars the all-American favorite, scrambled eggs on an English muffin topped with a surprise—a North Atlantic splash of Vita Herring in Cream Sauce. Tasting is believing the magical combination of flavors. It's no longer tomato, muffin, scrambled eggs and herring. It is truly qualified as "English Herring Brunch."

Serve with steaming hot coffee. And, if the mood is festive, save some herring bits to serve on small pieces of crispy rye bread. Before or after the entree, cool herring bits are "naturals" with champagne.

ENGLISH HERRING BRUNCH (Serves 4)
2 Tbl. margarine or butter
9 eggs
3 Tbl. milk
4 English muffins, split and toasted
2 medium tomatoes (room temperature)
2 12 oz. jars Vita Herring in Cream Sauce (room temperature)
Melt margarine or butter in skillet. Stir eggs with milk until thoroughly blended. Pour egg mixture into hot skillet and scramble lightly until eggs are set but still moist.
On top of each toasted muffin half arrange ingredients in the following manner: slice of tomato, 2 to 3 pieces of herring, scrambled eggs, and top with piece of herring. Serve immediately.

SHAKESPEARE BALLET

The wizardry of an exiled Duke keeps young lovers bubbling, lords brewing and their power-hungry attendants stewing on an island inhabited by spirits and visited by deities. Such fantasy is the stuff "The Tempest" is made of, and a full-length ballet based on the famous Shakespeare play can be seen on "Dance in America," a presentation of "Great Performances," at 8 p.m., Monday, March 30, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The program will be telecast live from San Francisco's War Memorial Opera House. Choreographer Michael Smuin's two-act ballet incorporates these characters into what noted critic Clive Barnes calls a "huge, almost show-biz style success" with a storyline that would be "clear enough to someone totally unacquainted with the play."

HEALTHY CATTLE

The Spinal Column

By

WILLIAM L. POWELL, D. C.

Headache Cause May Be Pinched Nerve

According to a report issued by the N. Y. Journal of Medicine, the cause of headache in over 90% of 2,000 patients studied was a mechanical irritation of the nerves that exit between the bones of the neck. The report states that "Direct injury to the neck may be caused by a blow or a fall" that could easily irritate delicate spinal nerves.

American Weekly Magazine informed readers, "Headaches strike 18,000,000 Americans on a regular basis," and each day some 21 tons of aspirin are consumed in the attempt to gain relief.

Modern chiropractic treatment seeks to eliminate this irritation of spinal nerves and produce effective relief of neck tension and headaches.

PENSION PLANS

The comfort and financial security of retirement depends, to a large extent, on retirement income provided by private pension plans. Understanding that plan now may help assure greater security in your later years.

Under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, 40 million employees enrolled in pension plans are assured certain rights, including access to information about the plan. This information should be readily available from the personnel office where you work.

Many times workers are reluctant to go to the personnel office and ask questions. But you are entitled to this information, and your future depends on it.

Younger workers, not realizing the importance of a good pension plan, tend to think the government will take care of them when they get older. But Social Security is designed to provide only 20 percent of an individual's retirement income.

When considering a pension plan, first you must determine when and if you are eligible to join the plan, and when you will become vested.

Vesting means an employee has the right to his or her pension, or part of it, even if she or he leaves the company or is discharged before reaching retirement.

Under a typical private pension plan, you need to be at least 60 years old with 20 to 25 years of service before being eligible for an adequate pension.

The worker will need to know how years of service are counted, and how breaks in employment will affect vesting. This is especially important for women, who often work parttime, and take breaks in employment for raising a family.

If you leave the employer before completing a specific number of years, you will lose some or all of the pension benefits you have accumulated.

Mid-career workers who change jobs frequently jeopardize their retirement income.

There are two basic types of pension plans. Most are the defined benefit type. Under this plan, benefits received upon retirement are determined in advance, and can usually be computed by multiplying annual salary by years of service.

The defined contribution plan, also known as an individual account plan, is based on company profits, and the actual amount of retirement income is not set in advance.

Profitsharing plans are an example of a defined contribution plan. Retirement income will depend on how much money is put into the fund, how long it stays there, and how well it is invested.

Defined benefit plans, if terminated by the company, are, to some extent, insured by ERISA. Defined contribution plans are not insured.

Normal benefits are those you receive if you retire at your company's normal retirement age.

Early retirement benefits usually mean the employee will receive lower pension payments. Disability retirement benefits included in some plans vary from full to partial benefits received when the employee can no longer work because of disability or illness.

Employees should also know if their benefits will be paid monthly or in one lump sum, and if the pension plan includes a cost of living increment.

Other factors to take into consideration include the provisions for survivors should the retired worker die, and whether or not the spouse will receive any pension benefits if the worker dies before reaching retirement age.

There are many points to consider in a pension plan. When people shop around for a place to work, they should also make that company's pension plan a basis for their decision, if they want protection for their later years.

Each spouse should make the other spouse aware of the pension plan he/she has chosen to participate in as retirement investment.

Research Center plans workshop

Retail theory and techniques for small business owners and salespeople will be the focus of a one-session workshop to be held in Gulfport April 6, 7, 13, and 14.

The class, sponsored by the Mississippi Research and Development Center and the U.S. Small Business Administration, will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. in room 110-D at Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College, Jefferson Davis Campus in Gulfport.

Enrollment in the workshop is limited to the first 40 registrants. The fee of $25 per person includes instruction and workshop materials. Those interested should contact Isabelle Bishop, Mississippi Research and Development Center Gulf Coast Branch Office, telephone 864-3302.

Mississippi Power stockpiling coal

Mississippi Power Company continuously monitors conditions which might affect its fuel supply, says Alan Barton, president of Mississippi Power Company in Gulfport.

"For several months we have been increasing our stockpile of coal to be prepared in the event of a national coal miners' strike when the United Mine Workers' contract runs out in late March," Barton reports.

"We currently have approximately 1.3 million tons of coal stockpiled at the two generating plants where that fuel is utilized to generate electricity. This is equal to about an 82-day supply," the company president states.

"Normally, Mississippi Power Company stockpiles approximately one million tons of coal throughout a 60 day supply period."

Mississippi Power Company's generation was supplied by coal, nine percent by natural gas, and one percent by fuel oil, Barton reports.

"Coal is used to generate electricity at the Watson Electric Generating Plant located between Biloxi and Gulfport and the Daniel Electric Generating Plant near Moss Point-Pascagoula," he notes.

"The burning of coal to generate electricity at both power plants meets the environmental regulations set up by federal and state regulatory agencies," he adds.

"The burning of coal to generate electricity at both power plants meets the environmental regulations set up by federal and state regulatory agencies," he adds.

"During 1980, approximately 90 percent of College leaders set building dedication

The Mississippi College School of Law will formally dedicate its new building in the heart of downtown Jackson on Tuesday, April 7.

Residents of the Bay St. Louis area are invited to participate in the occasion. Featured guest for the dedication will be the Honorable Elliot Richardson, former U.S. attorney general.

"Richardson will address a luncheon for invited guests and then there will be an 'open house' for the general public and the legal community," says college public relations director Norman Gough.

"We recently had open house for members of the Mississippi College faculty and staff and members of the Mississippi Legislature," says E.A. (Beby) Turnage, dean of the School of Law.

"Now we want to acquaint all residents of the state with the law school's new facility and the opportunity it provides for the development of legal education in this area," Turnage reports.

"The School of Law occupied its new facility at 151 East Griffith St. in Jackson at the start of the current semester after extensive renovations and additions. The five-story building, located adjacent to the legislative complex of the state, was given to Mississippi College by the United Gas Pipeline Company," Turnage explains.

"A two-story addition to house the law library provides the space necessary for this important function of the law school. The addition, located to the south of the existing building, includes approximately 20,000 square feet of floor space and was constructed in such a way that an additional floor could be added above and below when expansion becomes necessary," Turnage further explains.

"These are exciting days for us and we want to share some of this excitement with interested persons all over the state," he says.

"The Mississippi College School of Law has a significant contribution to make to legal education in this region and as we grow and progress, we trust that people will take pride in having an institution such as this as a part of the state's capital city," Turnage states.

"The American Bar Association's House of Delegates granted the School of Law provisional accreditation in August, 1980. Their action followed unanimous recommendation of the Accreditation Committee and the Council of the Section of Legal Education and Admission to the Bar of the ABA in earlier meetings."

"The approval by the ABA has had a major impact on our program and this, coupled with our strategic location to the legislative and judicial hub of our state, gives us an advantage few law schools can claim," Turnage reports.

"The School of Law has experienced an influx of inquiries since receiving accreditation and moving to its new facilities and Turnage expects this interest to continue."

Applications are now being accepted for the 1981-1982 school year.

Prospective students should contact the Director of Admissions, Mississippi College School of Law, 151 East Griffith St., Jackson, Miss. 39201.

include campus tours, a jazz concert, prize drawings, and awards will be given to the group traveling the longest distance and the largest group from one school.

This day is designed to promote higher education by exposing interested students to a wealth of information and activities happening at Alcorn.

All high school senior and junior college sophomores are invited to attend. Parents are also encouraged to attend.
